News Release

cityofbishop.com

The City of Bishop has moved to cityofbishop.com on the internet. From now on, when you think the City of Bishop, think cityofbishop.com. The city is making this move to make city email and web pages easier to use and remember.

Although all old web page and email addresses for the City of Bishop will continue to work, web page visitors and those emailing the city should start using cityofbishop.com immediately.

The city's home page on the internet can be reached by typing cityofbishop.com into the address line of an internet browser. Except for the Bishop Police Department, new email addresses are the staff person's first initial plus the person's last name plus @cityofbishop.com. So, if Jane Doe had a City of Bishop email address, it would be jdoe@cityofbishop.com. Bishop Police Department email addresses have not changed and still end with bishoppd.org.

If someone happens to use an old city internet or email address, they'll be automatically redirected to the new address. No one will be forced to use the new addresses if they don't happen to remember. You may notice that emails from the city now come from a cityofbishop.com address.

When looking for a City of Bishop web page or a city staff member, remember to think and use cityofbishop.com. For more information, contact the City of Bishop.
