Warren Street Design Getting Clearer

The public is getting its first glimpses of how Warren Street will look to pedestrians and drivers once the City of Bishop Warren Street Improvements project is done. With the environmental analysis complete on the project, preliminary design of the project is moving forward. Final design and development of the construction plans will be started this fall. Work by city staff, its consultant Triad / Holmes Associates, and the Warren Street Focus Group have produced the first artist renderings of various locations on the project.

The first renderings are very preliminary and don't necessarily give an accurate picture of what the final project will look like, but they do give a great sense of the look and feel the project is expected to give the Warren Street area. The renderings are available at Bishop City Hall and the city's website.

The Warren Street project is generally planned to improve the full length of Warren Street with new pavement, curb, sidewalk, street trees, street lights, and other improvements. The project is planned to include pocket parks, seating areas, colored concrete with designs, landscaping, banners, improved utility poles, bike racks, restrooms, and shade trees. If there is enough money, the blocks of the side streets between Warren and Main streets will also be improved. The side streets are South, Lagoon, Church, Academy, Pine, and Elm. The money for the project comes from state and federal gas taxes.
