Power Outage Affecting Bishop Water Postponed

The City of Bishop has learned Southern California Edison has postponed the power outage that would have affected the city's water supply. The city understands the outage will be postponed until September. The outage had been planned for 16 and 17 July and would have affected the city's two main water supply wells.

Because the outage will affect the city's ability to produce water, the city had asked its customers to avoid watering the days planned for the outage. There is much less water use in September so, even though a reduction in watering will still be requested, the outage will not be as potentially as serious as if it had gone forward in July.
